

Allies Storm Main Roads To City Of Rome

By SID FEDER

Allied Headquarters, Naples, May 29 (AP)—Fifth Army troops stormed toward four Rome-line strongholds against fierce resistance today, thrusting one wedge within 17 miles of the Eternal City.

Headquarters declared three of 18 German divisions engaged in battle had been virtually destroyed in the broad offensive launched May 11, with more than 15,000 prisoners taken.

Overwhelming Aprilia, once bitterly-contested beachhead fortress, the Fifth punched north within a mile of Campoleone—the closest penetration toward Rome. To the east the Fifth Army advanced within 2,000 yards of Valmontone, the shell-torn Via Casilina, despite flame-throwing German counterattacks.

Steady Artillery Fire

Steady artillery fire was pumped onto the Via Casilina, main escape route for eight German divisions being forced back on the front to the southeast.

In between on the Campoleone-Valmontone line, other forces fought in the outskirts of Velletri on the Appian Way, and closed upon Lanuvium, four miles southwest.

"Despite several sharp German counterattacks, the Americans are advancing slowly in the direction of Rome," battlefield dispatch from Associated Press Correspondent Edward Kennedy declared.

Meanwhile the Eighth Army in the Liri and Sacco valleys to the southeast pushed ahead, breaking down German rear guard stands.

As the sound of the great battle rolled into Rome, the enemy in the mountains southeast of Valmontone was driven out of the towns of Sermoneta and Bassiano, below Norma, which was overwhelmed yesterday. Snipers still were active in the hills beyond this area and Fifth Army patrols were sniping them up.

Make Steady Advances

In its northward drive the Fifth Army slashed across two of the bitterest battlefields of the beachhead fights of last February.

French forces meantime followed up their seizure of Villa Santo Stefano by taking off northward through the hills toward the Liri valley making only casual contact with the enemy and capturing Monte Siserno, 2,400 feet high.

On the heels of the capture yesterday on the important road of Ceprano on Highway Six and the Liri river, the Fifth Army pushed west and north. Throwing bridges rapidly across the Liri and Sacco rivers, where the enemy had blown up crossings, Lt. Gen. Sir Oliver Leese's troops swept westward six miles from Ceprano to Pofi.

To the north, in the area of Arce at the junction of Highway Six and 82, they surrounded the towering Monte Oreo, dominating Arce and surrounded Santo Padre, four and a half miles northeast.

Pvt. George Evanko, of the local state police, who investigated the accident today said he would lay a charge of making a bad pass against Flenner before Justice of the Peace Leo Storm as a result of the accident.

Crash On Hill

The accident occurred as Flenner, enroute to Hanover, passed a car driven by Jess C. Recard, 40, Littlestown R. 2, on the crest of a hill, Evanko said. Both cars were headed east.

Shaffer was driving west and came over the crest of the hill as Flenner attempted the pass. The Flenner and Shaffer cars collided head on.

Recard, attempting to pull off to the side of the road when he saw that the accident was about to happen in order to allow Flenner to regain his side of the road, crashed into a telephone pole. Damage to his car was only $25 with no one injured in his vehicle, police said.

Damage to the Flenner and Shaffer cars was estimated at $1,100.

"The Work of the United States as a Christian Nation in the Post-War World," was the title of the address given by the Rev. George W. Harrison, Bendersville, at the annual Memorial exercises held Sunday afternoon at Arendtsville under the sponsorship of the Ira E. Lady post of the American Legion.

Outlines 4 Duties

Four duties were outlined for the United States by the Rev. Mr. Harrison. They included: "Introduction into the world of the principles of Jesus; overcoming bitterness and hatred by preaching good will; launching a program of help for those who have suffered from the war and showing the world that peace is possible and war can be avoided."

"This is our work as a Christian nation," he declared. "It will not be done in a year or two, for we must take the world as we find it and remake it."

"Christ was far ahead of the people of his own day and our day. Jesus visualized a world in which all men were brothers and in which love and mercy could and must prevail," he added. "The principles of Christianity have not failed—they have never been tried."

"We must not only overcome the burden of hate to make the Poles tolerate the Germans, and the people of India realize the British want to help them, we also have the problem of our own attitude toward the Negro, the Chinese and Japanese, and the Jews."

"Our task for tomorrow is the opposite of today. Today we destroy, tomorrow we must build, we must send food and medicines and builders instead of bombers, doctors instead of destroyers, nurses and nurses aides instead of Wacs and Waves. Such a program will be the proof of our Christianity."

"To show the world that peace is possible, we must end our isolationism, we must educate instead of exploit backward peoples, we must allow self-government wherever possible."

Greyhound Strike Affects Gettysburg

A strike of approximately 100 drivers of the Washington-region of the Greyhound Bus lines was still in effect today and interrupted bus service between Gettysburg and Washington, D. C.

Charles Downes, local dispatcher, said today the strike, which was called over the week-end, affected four outgoing and four incoming buses to Washington daily.

The strike was called in sympathy with about 180 maintenance employees at the Greyhound garage in Washington, who struck Friday over a contract dispute.

Charles J. Battershall, regional manager, said only buses operated by the Washington regional office were affected and that east-west service was being maintained.

Declaring that the cause of the Allies is now past "the point where it may be defeated Governor Colgate W. Darden, Jr., of Virginia, in the commencement address at Gettysburg college this morning charged the members of the graduating class with their responsibility in the formation of public opinion that will guide the United States into a partnership of nations working for world peace after this war.

"It will be for you to choose whether the United States shall again attempt to draw back into false security between the two great oceans or whether it will stand side by side with other great nations of the world in a united effort for the preservation of peace.

"To repeat our mistakes after the last war will mean that the children in our nurseries today will be welded into another great machine for another war abroad," Governor Darden warned.

Introduced By Martin

Introduced by Governor Edward Martin of Pennsylvania, in a 10-minute appearance on the commencement platform, Governor Darden spoke for 20 minutes at the 112th annual graduation exercises on the campus at the north portico of Old Dorm. The 64 graduates, 12 of whom finished their studies in January, received their diplomas in traditional academic gowns and in the uniforms of the United States Army and Navy. Only 53 of the seniors were in attendance, most of the absentees having already entered the armed forces making it impossible for them to attend.

A crowd of more than 500 persons gathered for the graduation exercises of the smallest class in a generation, unique in Gettysburg college history in that more than half of its members—37—were women students.

Busy At Hershey

Because Governor Martin was occupied at Hershey in extending the state's welcome to the Governors' conference this morning, the commencement program was re-arranged at the last minute so that the presentation of Governor Martin's degree and his introduction of the graduation speaker could be delayed as long as possible.

When all other degrees were conferred and the diplomas presented, Governor Martin arrived on the campus and was escorted to the platform by Dr. Frank H. Kramer, marshal for the academic procession.

Presented by Judge Hiram H. Keller, of the college board of trustees, as "Governor and first citizen of Pennsylvania, and lawyer, soldier and executive" for the degree of Doctor of Laws, Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president of the college, conferred the degree upon Governor Martin "as Governor of Pennsylvania and my warm personal friend."

Then expressing the college's "debt of appreciation" to Governor Martin for the inconvenience involved in his campus visit, Doctor Hanson presented the governor to make the (Please Turn to Page 2)

Labor claimants against the Penn Tile Works, Aspers, Saturday through their attorney, J. Francis Yake, Jr., filed exceptions to the distribution of the proceeds from the sale of personal property and real estate of the Aspers plant by the auditor Eugene V. Bullett, Esq.

The labor claimants, Doris Klunk, Mary Klunk, Charles E. Naugle, Fred L. Mertz, Charles C. Heller, John Bentz, Hazel Riley and John Eppelman claim the "auditor erred in accepting a letter from the Collector of Internal Revenue, of Philadelphia, as evidence and proof that the sum of $4,033.43 was due from the Penn Tile Works to the collector of taxes and further erred in allowing the said claim when there was no evidence whatsoever produced to substantiate the letter or written memorandum of the asserted claim."

The claimants also alleged that the auditor erred in allowing the claim of the United States in preference to the claims of the laborers for back wages said to be due them. The distribution of the proceeds from the sheriff's sale, as made by the auditor, did not reach the labor claimants.

"MINUTE MEN" PARTICIPATE IN THREE PARADES

Captain C. Arthur Brame, of the Gettysburg unit of the Pennsylvania Minute Men, his staff and 57 members of the uniformed outfit, marched in three Memorial Day parades on Sunday.

The unit paraded at Arendtsville early Sunday afternoon. Then the marchers participated in the parade at Biglerville after which they motored to Littlestown where they participated in the Memorial Day exercises there.

On Tuesday the Minute Men will march in the Memorial Day parade here at 1:45 o'clock and later in the afternoon will march in the parade at New Oxford.

"The Work of the United States as a Christian Nation in the Post-War World," was the title of the address given by the Rev. George W. Harrison, Bendersville, at the annual Memorial exercises held Sunday afternoon at Arendtsville under the sponsorship of the Ira E. Lady post of the American Legion.

Outlines 4 Duties

Four duties were outlined for the United States by the Rev. Mr. Harrison. They included: "Introduction into the world of the principles of Jesus; overcoming bitterness and hatred by preaching good will; launching a program of help for those who have suffered from the war and showing the world that peace is possible and war can be avoided."

"This is our work as a Christian nation," he declared. "It will not be done in a year or two, for we must take the world as we find it and remake it."

"Christ was far ahead of the people of his own day and our day. Jesus visualized a world in which all men were brothers and in which love and mercy could and must prevail," he added. "The principles of Christianity have not failed—they have never been tried."

"We must not only overcome the burden of hate to make the Poles tolerate the Germans, and the people of India realize the British want to help them, we also have the problem of our own attitude toward the Negro, the Chinese and Japanese, and the Jews."

"Our task for tomorrow is the opposite of today. Today we destroy, tomorrow we must build, we must send food and medicines and builders instead of bombers, doctors instead of destroyers, nurses and nurses aides instead of Wacs and Waves. Such a program will be the proof of our Christianity."

"To show the world that peace is possible, we must end our isolationism, we must educate instead of exploit backward peoples, we must allow self-government wherever possible."

Greyhound Strike Affects Gettysburg

A strike of approximately 100 drivers of the Washington-region of the Greyhound Bus lines was still in effect today and interrupted bus service between Gettysburg and Washington, D. C.

Charles Downes, local dispatcher, said today the strike, which was called over the week-end, affected four outgoing and four incoming buses to Washington daily.

The strike was called in sympathy with about 180 maintenance employees at the Greyhound garage in Washington, who struck Friday over a contract dispute.

Charles J. Battershall, regional manager, said only buses operated by the Washington regional office were affected and that east-west service was being maintained.

Declaring that the cause of the Allies is now past the point where it may be defeated Governor Colgate W. Darden, Jr., of Virginia, in the commencement address at Gettysburg college this morning charged the members of the graduating class with their responsibility in the formation of public opinion that will guide the United States into a partnership of nations working for world peace after this war.

"It will be for you to choose whether the United States shall again attempt to draw back into false security between the two great oceans or whether it will stand side by side with other great nations of the world in a united effort for the preservation of peace."

Introduced By Martin

Introduced by Governor Edward Martin of Pennsylvania, in a 10-minute appearance on the commencement platform, Governor Darden spoke for 20 minutes at the 112th annual graduation exercises on the campus at the north portico of Old Dorm. The 64 graduates, 12 of whom finished their studies in January, received their diplomas in traditional academic gowns and in the uniforms of the United States Army and Navy. Only 53 of the seniors were in attendance, most of the absentees having already entered the armed forces making it impossible for them to attend.

A crowd of more than 500 persons gathered for the graduation exercises of the smallest class in a generation, unique in Gettysburg college history in that more than half of its members—37—were women students.

Busy At Hershey

Because Governor Martin was occupied at Hershey in extending the state's welcome to the Governors' conference this morning, the commencement program was re-arranged at the last minute so that the presentation of Governor Martin's degree and his introduction of the graduation speaker could be delayed as long as possible.

When all other degrees were conferred and the diplomas presented, Governor Martin arrived on the campus and was escorted to the platform by Dr. Frank H. Kramer, marshal for the academic procession.

Presented by Judge Hiram H. Keller, of the college board of trustees, as "Governor and first citizen of Pennsylvania, and lawyer, soldier and executive" for the degree of Doctor of Laws, Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president of the college, conferred the degree upon Governor Martin "as Governor of Pennsylvania and my warm personal friend."

Then expressing the college's "debt of appreciation" to Governor Martin for the inconvenience involved in his campus visit, Doctor Hanson presented the governor to make the (Please Turn to Page 2)

FURIOUS FIGHT IS RAGING FOR ITALIAN CITY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst
German held Valmontone, astride the great Cassinia highway twenty miles southwest of Rome, was the outstanding strategic prize for a furious battle was being fought today, as the Allied offensive from the Anzio beachhead continued to surge forward.

Nazi retention of Valmontone was a matter of death or capture for a host of their badly mauled troops which are falling back towards the Eternal City from the shattered Adolf Hitler line. This town forms a barrier across Via Cassinia, frequently referred to as route No. 6 which is the chief remaining avenue of escape for the retreating enemy since they lost the Appian Way to the south.

Vital to Rome
Nazi possession of Valmontone is even more than that. Its capture by the Hitlerites would be a heavy blow to their defense of Rome—if indeed they intend to defend it to the last.

No wonder then that as dawn broke over the battlefield the Germans were counterattacking furiously from Valmontone with flame-throwers in an effort to hold open this route for their comrades, and that Fifth Army beachhead troops were driving straight through this hellish assault until they were close to the outskirts of the town. Valmontone decidedly was a point worth watching as a key to Allied progress.

Via Cassinia isn't, of course, the only avenue of escape for Nazi Field Marshal Kesselring's retreating troops. About 25 miles along this highway to the southeast lies the big and also strategic town of Frosinone and from there another highway, and also a railroad, run a bit northward and then turn towards Rome, above Via Cassinia. This Frosinone thoroughfare also divides after a bit, providing still another avenue which ultimately winds in towards Rome.

Heavy Nazi Losses
Thus the wily Kesselring won't be cut off even if he loses Via Cassinia. However, that is his chief avenue for withdrawal not only of troops but of mountains of equipment. So while he may be able to save many of his soldiers, he already has lost heavily through death and capture, and his losses in material already are grave.

Kesselring's problem is to disengage and retreat in face of strong enemy pressure without catastrophe. Thus far he appears to have done a business-like job. However, neither his undoubted skill nor that of any other man could evade the havoc being caused by his retreating columns by the Allied airforce which controls the sky and is constantly hammering the roadways.

WHITE HOUSE SENDS LETTER TO MR. MYERS

Penrose Myers, Oak Ridge, Gettysburg's oldest merchant, was honored Sunday by a letter of congratulation from President Roosevelt on the occasion of the jeweler's 86th birthday.

Mr. Myers, for 68 years owner and manager of his jewelry store on Baltimore street, was working at the store Sunday afternoon about 3 o'clock when a special delivery letter from the White House was handed to him.

The letter, sent May 27, follows: "Dear Mr. Myers: The President has heard that on next Sunday you will celebrate your 86th birthday and he asks me to extend to you his very best wishes. He hopes the anniversary will bring you many happy memories of a long life and that all your days will be filled with peace and happiness."

Another Greeting
The letter was signed by William D. Hassett, secretary to the President.

Another birthday greeting of which Mr. Myers is proud is a hand-painted card sent him from Toronto, Canada, by A. A. Stewart, who met the local jeweler here many years ago while visiting Gettysburg and the battlefield. A letter, accompanying the painting says: "Many happy returns of May 28th to our dear friend, Penrose Myers. May his days be long in the land God has given us." The birthday card pictures Mr. Myers, senior, telling young Penrose Myers on the day after the battle of Gettysburg that all the ruin of that day would pass away and that some day the Gettysburg battlefield would look like the illustration. The picture has Mr. Myers, Sr., garbed in Lincolnian dress and coat, pointing out to young Penrose a battle scene, and another view showing the battlefield laid out in park-like formation as it is today.

DR. J. G. WICKEY GIVES ADDRESS TO COLLEGIANS

Gettysburg college seniors were challenged in the baccalaureate sermon Sunday morning by Dr. J. Gould Wickey, of Washington, D. C., to carry "the message and method of the Christian church and the person of Christ through the open door of opportunity to a world seeking a method, and a message adequate for its crucial needs."

Doctor Wickey, an alumnus of the class of 1912 who is now secretary of the Board of Education of the United Lutheran Church in America, spoke on the theme "A Seeking Generation."

He said "we are living in a changing world in which many educators, lawmakers, political leaders and statesmen have been disillusioned in their efforts to solve the world's ills with education, laws and statesmanship.

"Sovereign God"

"The Christian church," he said, "answers this generation's search for a message with the presentation of the reality of a sovereign God who is a guide for individuals and a director of the destinies of nations. He is a compassionate God, a God who cares and enters into our difficulties. He is a capable God."

"The Christian church has a method of solving economic, industrial, social, racial and international problems by patient, enduring love. To use Nazi methods is to become a Nazi. If the Allied nations after this war use Axis methods of dealing with the conquered nations, the Allies shall lose their souls and shall be banished from the earth. The method of patient love is a hard way. It means loving the unlovely, doing good to the enemy."

"To a generation seeking a person that incarnates this message and this method, the Christian church presents Christ, the Son of God, the saviour of men and the King of Kings, superior to all others."

An Opportunity

"This generation seeking a message, a method and a person constitute an open door of opportunity to you to take the message of the church to a world that knows it not. Your God needs you. Here is a seeking generation, a present God—and you."

The service in the Majestic theater followed an academic procession from the campus led by college officials and the faculty. The Rev. Dr. Dwight F. Putman, pastor of the College Lutheran church, read the scripture lesson from the third chapter of Revelations and offered prayer. Eric H. Sigmar, a member of the graduating class, sang "The Beatitudes," accompanied by Robert B. Rau, pianist for the exercises.

Doctor Wickey's sermon was followed by the singing of the college hymn and the benediction, pronounced by Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president of the college.

GOVERNOR OF

introduction speech for Governor Darden.

Presents Darden

Governor Martin said: "I appreciate the honor just conferred upon me by this magnificent old institution more than words can express." Then turning to Governor Darden he said, "Governor Darden, 81 years ago we welcomed to Gettysburg a great soldier from your state in a very different way."

He referred to the visit here Tuesday of all of the governors attending the conference at Hershey and declared "the distinguished group is coming to Gettysburg for one great purpose—to show to the world the unity of America in our great cause."

His formal presentation of Governor Darden followed and then with apologies to Doctor Hanson for his hasty departure and a handshake with the college president, Governor Martin left the platform, circled Old Dorm and stepped into a waiting car which whisked him off to Hershey where he was due at a luncheon meeting of the governors at 12:30 o'clock. Governor Edge, of New Jersey, who also received an L.L.D. degree, followed a few minutes later in another car.

Howard Frank Bink, Camp Hill, who a few minutes later received the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity. Miss Marian L. Fish of the class of 1946, sang "The Lord's Prayer" and the audience joined in the college hymn.

As he conferred the degree of Doctor of Science in Education upon Dr. Clyde B. Stover, Doctor Hanson paid a special tribute to the 47 years of service rendered the college by Doctor Stover as registrar and professor of chemistry. He described the retired college official as "one of the finest men it is my privilege to know."

Tribute To Martin

As Governor Martin mounted the platform, the Valley Forge band played "Old No. 9" and won special praise from the Governor for the selection. "It meant a great deal to me," he said.

In the introduction to his address, Governor Darden praised the important role played in our national life by the liberal arts colleges. "If the liberal arts school were to decline and fall, their decline would be followed within a generation by the fall of democratic government," he declared.

Japanese Make Advance In China

Chungking, May 29 (AP)—Japanese troops attacking southward along the Hankow-Canton railway in Human province were within 80 miles of Changsha today in what may be another attempt to clear that important railway and to strengthen Japanese defenses against possible future American landings on the China coast.

The Hankow-Canton railway is about 425 miles inland from the China coast, and the main Japanese push was begun Saturday at Yoyang (Yochow), approximately 100 miles north of Changsha in the Tungting lake area. Other Japanese units were fighting Chinese troops near Tungcheng, in adjoining Hupeh province, 45 miles, south-east of Yoyang.

Chinese troops under "Little Tiger" Gen Hsueh Yueh, governor of Hunan, already have fought three successful battles around Hangsha against the Japanese, keeping the enemy from utilizing the 435-mile strip of the railway between Yoyang and Canton. The apparently impending fourth battle for Changsha, however, may put the Chinese to their severest test.

world affairs with the observation that the League of Nations plan, "although an imperfect instrument offered the best opportunity for preserving peace that then was available—an opportunity that we lost and never again were offered."

Signs of War

He named the Japanese invasion of China in 1931 as the beginning of World War II and cited the later invasions in Africa by the Italians as growing signs of the holocaust that was to come. At Munich, he said, the French and English sought to purchase peace at the cost of the life of weaker nations. He said he did not believe fear of German might caused Chamberlain and Daladier to act—for "I believe they did not know then how strong Germany was." The lesson to learn from Munich, he declared, is that the peace of the world cannot be purchased at the cost of weak nations.

"Only courage and Divine providence saved the English speaking nations after Dunkerque," he asserted. "Hitler lost this war on June 22, 1941, when he invaded Russia on a 2,000-mile front. We are now beyond the point where we may be defeated but how great the cost and how long the battle until victory, no one knows."

Frame Public Opinion
"After this war it will be for you young people to help frame public opinion in your communities against our nation repeating the mistakes it made after the World War by seeking false security in isolation."

"We must accept our responsibility as a world power and must stand in a partnership with other nations of the world seeking peace. No political party, but rather a philosophy, is to blame for the mistakes after the last war. Our hope in the future lies in an international policy supported by a majority of our people without regard to political parties."

After the singing of the "Alma Mater" the benediction was pronounced by Doctor Hanson. Music followed by the military academy band.

R. C. VOLUNTEER WORKERS HAVE SET HIGH RECORD

Volunteer Adams county women have made 11,983 articles for the armed forces and civilian refugees under the direction of the county Red Cross since 1929, a recapitulation of the work completed today disclosed.

The list of articles made for the Army includes 432 sweaters, 257 mufflers, 109 pairs of socks and 225 helmets. For the Navy they made 335 sweaters, 230 helmets, 169 watch caps and 22 scarfs. Kit bags made for the Army and Navy total 1,065.

Army and Navy articles have been made only since 1942, when the first shipment of 40 Army sweaters and 40 Navy sweaters were made on January 29, 1942. Since then the production has been steady, with the women turning out several hundred sweaters and similar articles per year for the armed forces.

Folded 254,850 Dressings
The production of 25 layettes in 1939 marked the beginning of an increasingly large production of all types of articles for civilians as the war has progressed. Starting long before Pearl Harbor, the women have worked steadily, taking on quota after quota and finishing the work required within the time limits set. Mrs. LeRoy H. Winebrenner, production chairman of the Red Cross, was in full charge at first and later Mrs. C. B. Stover took over active direction of the sewing when Mrs. Winebrenner's time was completely taken up by the establishment of surgical dressings centers in Gettysburg, Ardenstville, McSherrystown and Cashtown.

Since the establishment of the first surgical dressing room in Gettysburg in 1942, a total of 254,850 surgical dressings have been shipped and about 250 women are engaged at present in folding the bandages. The first surgical dressing room was established at the Red Cross building on High street and the sewing group moved to quarters on East Middle street.

Use Larger Quarters
When increasing quotas for dressings were sent the local chapter the Gettysburg surgical dressings group moved to its present location in the Legion building and the sewing center was returned to High street about a year ago. Since then the dressings centers in other communities have opened. About 85 women take part in making surgical dressings at Ardenstville, about 30 at Cashtown, approximately 60 at McSherrystown and the remainder at Gettysburg.

In addition to the dressings shipped about 18,000 have been completed and are awaiting shipment at the present time.

Red Cross officials, pointing out that quotas for surgical dressings are increasing every month, today urged all mothers and wives of service men to take part in the making of dressings. Asserting that "It may be your boy or your husband who will need the bandages we are making," Mrs. Winebrenner said today that in comparison with the work done by the Ardenstville, Cashtown and McSherrystown groups, and the number of women who take part there, Gettysburg has fallen far behind in meeting the needs of the armed forces for bandages. Only a small group, who have worked faithfully for some time, have volunteered here and they need assistance if the quotas are to be reached.

Get Biggest Quota
The quota for July is 48,000 dressings, the largest ever given to the county for one month, it was said.

Up to January 17, the women who sew and knit have produced 271 women's dresses, 364 women's skirts, 532 women's sweaters, 20 women's nightgowns, 63 women's bed jackets, 270 women's blouses, 330 women's slips, 200 women's petticoats, 93 women's shawls, 1712 children's sweaters, 291 children's suits, 656 girls' dresses, 642 girls' skirts, 250 girls' blouses, 360 girls' slips, 180 girls' nightgowns, 280 boys' shirts, 100 boys' nightshirts, seven boys' sweaters, 279 men's sweaters, 190 operating gowns, 140 hospital bed sheets, 389 layettes, 468 men's hospital pajamas, 49 afghans and lap robes, 274 convalescent robes, 139 boys' overalls, 183 girls' caps and hoods, 121 toddler packs, nine baby crib comforts, 15 baby sacks, 46 bedside bags, five card table covers, 25 bedpan covers, 11 utility bags and 25 "housewives."

Types of clothing and other articles made by the volunteers sewing or knitting either in their own homes or at centers in Gettysburg, Cashtown, Littlestown, New Oxford, Biglerville and Ardenstville, have varied as demands for different types of articles were made on the Red Cross.

Women's skirts, much in demand in 1941 and the early part of 1942, have not been made since that time. The demand for women's dresses disappeared in January, 1943, while the demand for women's sweaters has continued steadily since 1940. Women's nightgowns, bed jackets, slips and petticoats were not needed apparently until 1943, with most of the articles made since the middle of 1943. Shawls however have remained in constant demand, as have children's sweaters, although the quotas for the youngsters' sweaters have dropped off in recent months.

No girls' dresses have been made

War Prevents Attendance

"Pressing business in this part of the world prevents me from attending the thirtieth anniversary reunion of the class of 1914," Brig. Gen. Charles A. Willoughby, member of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's staff, explained in a letter read at his class dinner Saturday evening at the Hotel Gettysburg.

General Willoughby expressed the hope that he will be able to be present for a post-war anniversary meeting of his classmates. Another distinguished member of the class of 1914, Spurgeon M. Keeney, New York city, one of Gettysburg college's two Rhodes scholars, also sent greetings. At the last minute he had to abandon plans to come here for the reunion.

18 PAROCHIAL SCHOOL PUPILS ARE GRADUATED

Outstanding achievement awards were presented to Donald Weaver, Helen Eberhart and Mary Louise Cole, of the eighth grade of St. Francis Xavier Catholic school Sunday evening at the annual eighth grade graduation exercises held at St. Francis Xavier Catholic church.

Eighteen eighth-graders, ten girls and eight boys, made up the graduating class which was presented with diplomas by the Rev. Mark E. Stock, pastor of the church. The prizes awarded to the outstanding students were given by the Mothers' Club of St. Francis Xavier school.

The graduation exercises were conducted in connection with the annual May procession held from the school through the church with 200 students taking part. Nearly 1,000 persons jammed the church to witness the services.

Church Procession
Led by altar boys carrying a crucifix, the students marched through the aisles of the church with the members of the eighth grade and their attendants kneeling at the altar rail while the crowning of the statue of the Blessed Virgin took place. Barbara Welshaar, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Welshaar, was crown bearer with Sonia Neary and Barbara Kerrigan as attendants.

A prayer dedicating the men in the armed forces to the Blessed Virgin was read by Patricia Bushey, daughter of Petty Officer and Mrs. Joseph F. Bushey, Fairfield road. Members of the graduating class at the services included Richard Cole, Richard Miller, Richard Sanders, Chester Small, Robert Steinberger, Paul Walter, Donald Weaver, Jacob Yingling, Mary Louise Cole, Mary Louise Chrismer, Helen Eberhart, Jane Porry, Josephine Gallagher, Bernadette Hemler, Barbara Ann Roth, Eileen McLaughlin, Marie Miller and Loraine Small.

The Rev. Fr. Thomas J. Kilcullen, of the faculty of Mount St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, delivered the sermon for the service, on "Mary, the Exemplar of Womanhood," declaring that "if Catholic women do not uphold the ideal of Mary the world is on the road to destruction."

List Attendants
He urged fidelity to the sacraments among the graduating class, urging the boys to join the Holy Name Society and the girls to join the Sodality of the Blessed Virgin Mary, both of which organizations monthly attend Holy Communion in a body. He urged the students "and their mothers and fathers here tonight to give battle against the world's mistakes."

The youngsters who were attendants for the eighth graders were dressed in white, with the girls wearing floral wreaths in their hair. All carried flowers. They included: Jean Bushey, Joan Bushey, Ann Rummel, Shirley Hockenberry, Ann Callahan, Ruth Wagnen, Susan Cullison, Charmain Schrade, Anna Redding, Patricia Redding, Richard Grot, Richard Roy, Kenneth Knox, Martin Redding, Joseph Robinson, Philip Kenworthy, Richard Steinberger and James Yingling.

Most Local Stores Will Close Tuesday

Most stores in Gettysburg are planning to close Memorial Day, with a few scheduled to be open until noon.

The post office as well as the banks will be closed throughout the day, with no deliveries, either in the county or town to be made by the mail carriers. The lobby at the post office will be open from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., but there will be no window service. A skeleton crew will be on hand to take care of outgoing mail during the day.

The Red Cross office and all county offices at the court house will also close for the holiday.

since the beginning of 1943 while girls' slips, blouses and nightgowns have all been made since the latter half of last year. Men's sweaters are another standby with the group knitting the sweaters since early in 1940.

Most of the demands were made for special types of articles when an emergency arose demanding the article while it was not available. Later when more of the goods such as baby crib comforts, bedside bags and the like were available commercially, production ceased in the neighborhood centers of the Red Cross.

MANY COLLEGE CLASSES HOLD REUNIONS HERE

GENERAL WILLOUGHBY

With alumni of Gettysburg college coming back to their Alma Mater Saturday in larger numbers than had been at first indicated, a half dozen class dinners were conducted Saturday evening in Gettysburg by anniversary classes.

Informal gatherings were held by other classes at the annual alumni collation and meeting Saturday afternoon.

One of the largest gatherings was staged by the fiftieth anniversary group, the class of 1894, while the largest group reporting was the class of 1924 which had 33 members and guests at their dinner.

21 At Dinner
There were 21 persons at the 1894 class dinner at the Hotel Gettysburg Saturday evening, including 13 members of the class and guests. Elmer Stahl, professor of mathematics at Midland college, Fremont, Nebraska, traveled the greatest distance to attend the affair which was conducted without a formal program permitting the old grads to devote their time to a discussion of "by-gone days."

Roses for all of the members of the class were distributed by Mrs. Cora Hartman Berkey, West Broadway.

Those present included: The Rev. Dr. C. P. Bastian, Altoona; the Rev. Dr. L. A. Bush, Bowling Springs; the Rev. John S. English, Saxton, Pa.; Calvin K. Gilbert, Hanover street; Mrs. Berkey, Mrs. Margaret Himes Seebach, Litt. D., Merion, Pa.; the Rev. Dr. Julius F. Seebach, Merion; the Rev. Dr. M. S. Kemp, Hazleton; T. Z. Minehart, Esq., St. Thomas; R. D. Professor Stahl, Col. Edgar S. Strayer, Rehoboth Beach, Del.; U. S. Army retired, Dr. C. B. Stover, Gettysburg, and E. E. Rippman, Millerstown, Pa.

4 From 1899 Class
Four members of the class of 1899 gathered for an informal dinner Saturday evening at the Hotel Gettysburg. The class members present included Dr. H. A. Hoover, D. Hoover of the Seminary faculty, Charles H. Smith, West Broadway; J. Frank Staley, Washington, D. C., and Charles H. Spayd, York.

The class of 1904 held its 40th anniversary reunion at the Battle-field hotel, enjoying a chicken dinner. Members of the class and their families totaling 30 persons were present. Arrangements had been made by a committee, of which Dr. A. R. Wentz was the chairman and Norton Miller a member.

Dr. William W. Barkley, of Shippenburg, president of the class, acted as toastmaster, and called for remarks from each one present. The singing of "Alma Mater" and the 1904 class song were included in the program. A period of silent prayer was observed in memory of the 19 members who have died since this class of 68 members entered college in 1900. President H. W. A. Hanson visited the reunion and made appropriate remarks.

Class officers elected for the next five years are: President, Mrs. Roy C. Dougherty, of Reading (the former Carrie Ingelbert, of Gettysburg); vice presidents, Dr. A. R. Wentz, of the Gettysburg Seminary; Samuel A. Conway, Harrisburg, and William C. Lott, of Palatine Bridge, New York; secretary treasurer, Paul Froehlich, of Washington, D. C.; representative for the second generation, Frederick K. Wentz, and representative for the loyal fund, Prof. Fred G. Masters, of Pittsburg.

The class voted to continue indefinitely the publication of the annual "1904 Bulletin," which has been issued for 40 years. Mr. Froehlich, who has served as editor during 30 years, was reelected to that position. During the other 10 years of its history, C. B. Gladfelter, of New York city, was editor.

Among members present at this reunion was Dr. Paul B. Dunbar, of Washington, D. C., who is now the commissioner of food and drugs, Federal Security Agency. He was accompanied by his daughter, Jane Dunbar, class of 1940, who recently completed her training and received silver wings of the WASP at Sweetwater, Texas.

Class of 1909
Six members of the class of 1909 dined together Saturday evening at the SAE house on West Lincoln avenue and discussed a class project that they said is not yet ready for public announcement.

The local members are Dr. John B. Zinn and S. F. Snyder and the others present for the dinner were Lloyd Van Doren, New York; Victor Hausknecht, Harrisburg; Clarence L. Kopp, Cumberland Maryland, and Clarence L. S. Raby of Philadelphia.

Class of 1914
The class of 1914 at their dinner at the Hotel Gettysburg re-elected officers for the next five years. The Rev. Robert J. Wolf, Harrisburg, was chosen president again and Dr. Samuel E. Wicker, Wilmington, Del., was re-elected class agent.

Letters of greetings were read from many members of the class who were unable to attend. The list included Brigadier General Willoughby and Spurgeon M. Keeney, Edgar Moser, Jr., sounded taps. The Rev. Paul Gladfelter preached the Memorial Day sermon as part of the regular church services following the exercises in the cemetery.

Church Filled FOR HIGH SCHOOL BACCALAUREATE
Members of the graduating class of the Gettysburg high school, the faculty and board of education, parents of the seniors and their relations and friends filled St. James Lutheran church Sunday evening for the annual baccalaureate service. The sermon was delivered by the Rev. Charles K. Gibson, pastor of the Gettysburg Methodist church, on the theme, "The Compelling Light."

The Rev. Ralph R. Gresh, St. James pastor, conducted the service after the gownned seniors took their places in a reserved section at the front of the church.

A junior choir, including a number of members of the graduating class presented two anthems under the direction of Richard B. Shade, supervisor of music and organist at the church. In the first anthem, "Fear Not, I Am with Thee," a solo was presented by Miss Treva Munshour. The second anthem, sung after the baccalaureate sermon, was "Send Forth Thy Light," by Balakirev.

Fear No Defeats
After the benediction by the Rev. Mr. Gibson, the congregation remained in their places as the class members marched from the church as the organist played "Marche Heroique" by Saint-Saens.

The Rev. Mr. Gibson pointed the graduates toward "a God of infinite love who stands beside every one of us." Urging the seniors to keep their lives "free from bigotry, hypocrisy and deceit," he assured them that defeats in their lives are not as important "as what you do with those defeats and how you react in the midst of them."

"Never give way to the spirit of defeat. Never lose faith in your fellowmen and above all don't lose faith in yourself," he continued. Pointing to Jesus Christ as "the light of the world that can control, compel and complete our lives," he urged the graduates to find "glimpses of that light throughout your life to inspire you and to enable you to live lives that are upright and worth while."

"MINUTE MEN"
also at Biglerville, included: Robert Eicholtz, Clarence Deardoff and Stanton D. House.

At Biglerville
C. O. Meckley, Hanover postmaster, spoke on "Our Destiny" at the exercises held at Biglerville Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Meckley pointed out that this reunion has been in seven years and in each instance the basic causes for the wars have been the same.

He paid tribute to both the living and dead and paid special tribute to mothers.

The Rev. Earl Ensminger, pastor of the Heidersburg United Brethren charge, gave the invocation, and the Rev. H. W. Sternat, pastor of the Biglerville Lutheran charge, pronounced the benediction.

Music was furnished by the Biglerville high school band.

In the parade preceding the service Biglerville school children, the Pennsylvania Minutemen, the Biglerville high school band and members of patriotic organizations participated.

Conduct Memorial Rites At Flohr's
W. Preston Hull and George P. Black, of the local camp of the Sons of Union Veterans, conducted the GAR ritualistic exercises for Memorial services held Sunday morning at 9 o'clock in the cemetery at Flohr's church.

Otis Walter, George Coshum, William L. Meals, Jr., William M. G. Tawney, David A. Tawney and Fred Swisher comprised the SUV firing squad for the occasion. The Sunday school children strewed flowers on the graves of the veterans and Edgar Moser, Jr., sounded taps. The Rev. Paul Gladfelter preached the Memorial Day sermon as part of the regular church services following the exercises in the cemetery.

Circus Coming To Gettysburg Saturday

Gettysburg will be visited by a circus Saturday, marking the first time that the elephants have trod, the acrobats flown and the clowns clowned on the old fair ground here in several years.

The Beers-Barnes circus, one of the oldest on the road, will present the old-time circus program under the big top during the afternoon and evening, Saturday. Included in the program will be the Lois troupe of girl wire walkers, the Rathburn sisters on the trapeze, Marvin Ray's company of acrobats and balancers, plenty of clowns, and other acts, including animal acts featuring Alice, the largest performing elephant on the road, the Adams dogs, Madame Tillie and her ponies and similar acts.

ALLIES POUND NAZI REICH IN DUAL ASSAULT

London, May 29 (AP) — Allied bombers — presumably another U. S. armada flying from Britain — drove deep across Germany today to its farthest reaches of lower Saxony and Pomerania, Berlin radio declared, while another fleet struck up from Italy into the Danube area in a two-way blow.

The Germans declared heavy air battles were fought, with Nazi fighters striking through Allied escort screens into the bomber formations.

The daylight assaults capped a night in which the RAF kept the snowballing air offensive rolling unchecked by assaults on the northwestern French railroad center of Angers, the German chemical city of Ludwigshafen, and other targets on the French coast.

Allies Lose Plane
The planes flying out from Britain raced through brilliant, hot channel skies to the continent. The German radio reported that as the Allies' southern fleet — its bombing presumably accomplished — wheeled for home, bomber formations from Britain approached northwestern Germany. The broadcast added that attacking fighter squadrons had swept into the southwestern portion of the Reich.

The RAF operations last night, which also included mine laying in enemy waters, cost one British plane.

The railway center at Angers — a new objective — was the main target of the British night bombers. The attack was reported heavy, although the air ministry indicated the force was not unusually large. It probably consisted of several hundred bombers.

Ceaseless Assault
The Nazi report of the incursion from the south into the Danube basin toward southeastern Germany indicated that Mediterranean Allied air force bombers may be on an operation like last Wednesday, when they trounced a number of objectives around Vienna.

Since dawn Saturday, exclusive of the latest night attack by British planes, about 14,500 tons of bombs have been loosed by Allied planes on countless continental objectives by some 12,000 aerial sorties (individual plane flights) flown from both Britain and Italy.

This tempest of fire and steel saw the greatest American aerial armada ever sent on a single mission — a fleet of about 2,200 bombers and fighters — smash at synthetic oil plants and other installations in central and western Germany Sunday.

Services Today For S. Allen Schwartz
Funeral services were held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the Bender funeral home for S. Allen Schwartz, 58, Gettysburg R. 1, who died Saturday morning at the Warner hospital. The Rev. Dr. J. M. Myers officiated. Interment in Evergreen cemetery.

Dr. C. G. Crist, Adams county coroner, who investigated, attributed death to cerebral hemorrhage.

The pallbearers were L. U. Collins, Harry Wolfe, Cecil Gudden, Cyrus Miller, C. T. Hawbaker and Floyd Snyder.

ALUMNI MEETING
The annual Alumni Association of Gettysburg high school dance and meeting will be held this evening at the high school. A program of entertainment has been arranged and all other arrangements completed for the event, the president of the association, Herbert Raymond, said today.

FIREMEN MEET TONIGHT
Gettysburg's firemen will gather at the engine house this evening at 8:30 o'clock to flush the streets surrounding the square in preparation for Memorial Day. Fire Chief James A. Aumen has announced.

Largest Gathering
The largest gathering for any class reunion was that held at the Hotel Gettysburg by the members of the class of 1924, marking their twentieth anniversary. Thirty-three members and guests attended.

E. Grothe, Philadelphia, was re-elected president; Leon A. Phillips, Hazleton, secretary-treasurer, and the Rev. Hugh E. Yost, Philadelphia, class agent.

The local members of the class in attendance were Miss Beatrice Pfeiffer, Robert Deardoff, Mrs. Treva Weikert Ziegler and Carl A. Baum.

There were eight persons at the first centennial reunion of the class of 1939 held at the Hotel Gettysburg. The group included these members of the class: Major Eric Duckstad, Fort Knox; Pvt. Clifton White, Miss Betty Damm, Baltimore; the Rev. Cedric Tilberg, Washington, D. C., and George Daugherty, Reading.

The word "Bolshevik" in Russian means a member of the majority.

39 GRADUATES AT BIGLERVILLE HEAR ADDRESS

The Rev. Nevin R. Frantz, who delivered the baccalaureate sermon to the 39 members of the graduating class of Biglerville high school Sunday evening at St. Paul's Lutheran church, had as his subject "Builders of a Better Tomorrow," from Corinthians, using the verse "For other foundation can no man lay than that which is laid, which is Jesus Christ," as a text.

The Rev. Mr. Frantz stressed the importance of "religious beliefs and practices which will be vital in the future instead of depending entirely upon the older ones which were sufficient to their day but inadequate for the tomorrow." He charged the class members to go forth into the world and become better men and women because of the tasks which they will have to face.

Following an organ prelude and procession played by Miss Dorothy Sternat, the Rev. Henry W. Sternat gave the call to worship and the audience joined in pronouncing the invocation.

Several selections by the high school glee club, under the direction of Prof. Charles L. Yost, were included on the program and the benediction was pronounced by the Rev. Mr. Frantz.

The 29th annual commencement exercises will be held in the school auditorium this evening at 8 o'clock. The program follows:

Yost; "Democratic Planning for Full Employment," Glenn E. Musselman; soprano solo, "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," Phyllis M. Elusive Mr. Raffle Under Double Lock

Philadelphia, May 29 (AP)—The elusive Mr. Raffle is under double lock and key at Moyamensing prison.

Fireman First Class Frank P. Raffle is the 19-year-old sailor who has escaped twice from the brig of the Navy yard—once in the luxurious limousine of an admiral and the second time, while he was awaiting a general court martial for the first offense, in a shiny Navy station wagon.

He was slated for a further hearing today after his arrest last night. A joint task force of coast guardsmen and Philadelphia police captured Raffle, who is being held on charge of rape and aggravated assault and battery. Two girls made the charges against him last Tuesday.

Raffle's first flight from the Navy yard was April 9 and he last sped past the guards at the gate May 16.

PAYS TRIBUTE TO MOTHERS OF SOLDIER BOYS

"Will our boys be recognized, not because of creed and color but because they stood up for the red, white and blue?" the Rev. R. M. Everett, pastor of St. Paul's A.M.E. Zion church, asked in his Memorial Day address at the annual service held by the colored citizens of the town Sunday afternoon at the colored cemetery.

"I'm fearful, my friends, for our boys and girls when they come marching home," the Rev. Mr. Everett said.

"A dear old lady told me the other day she would be glad when 'things got back to normal,' the Rev. Mr. Everett said. "But things will not get back to normal until men recognize the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man and that we are our brothers' keeper."

Tribute To Women
"Our cheers today are not for the practice of war—but for the men and boys who paid the last full measure of devotion."

"As we walk through the beautiful National cemetery here we ask ourselves 'Is there no better way to settle these questions than by war?' Lincoln tried to stop the Civil War while a representative from Illinois. Later when war broke out he came to Gettysburg and said the most important thing ever said—'these dead shall not have died in vain.'"

"But as we cheer for the soldiers of all wars, let us also shed tears for the wives, the mothers and the children of the men called to war. It is hard for men to fight, but is it not as hard for women to face long and lonely years with their husbands or sons lost in the war? No Memorial Day is fittingly observed if we have cheers for the soldiers and no tears for the wives, mothers and sweethearts of the men."

"If we were really represented in the parades on memorial days we would not have a band and bright uniforms, but we would have hatred, blood, agonies, death, poverty, taxes, broken hearts, broken homes, marching in the line. War would be robbed of its glory and we would have only the tears," the Rev. Mr. Everett said.

John H. Carter, chairman of the committee in charge, acted as master of ceremonies and read Lincoln's Gettysburg address. The Rev. Nelson D. Shadney, pastor of St. John's Baptist church, delivered the invocation and benediction. Sgt. W. L. Baldwin played taps.

A parade of school children, their escorts and the official party was held from the corner of South Washington and Breckenridge streets to the cemetery prior to the services. The children strewed flowers on the graves to open the exercises in the cemetery. Sgt. Joseph Wansel, Camp Shank, New York, was color bearer.

Common sense is in spite of, not the result of, education.—Victor Hugo.

Just Folks
SOMEBODY
By a fellow called "Somebody"—name never known—
The germs of despair and dissension are sown.
"Somebody told me," my neighbor begins.
As a tale of man's cunning in whippers he spins.
But here's a safe rule: Never utter or credit
Whatever is started with: "Somebody said it!"
This fellow called "Somebody" poisons the air.
It seems that his purpose is always to scare.
He's met in the places where gossip can flow.
His friends, he announces, are "men in the know."
So talk if you must; say you saw it, or read it,
But never repeat it if "Somebody said it!"
This "Somebody" person has only one mission
And that is to scatter the seeds of suspicion.
His facts are all rumors; his narratives vicious;
His stuff innuendoes and mostly malicious.
So never repeat it lest further you spread it,
And never believe it if "Somebody said it!"

Today's Talk
THE LINGERING TONES OF BELLS
As a youth in Michigan I was at one time the janitor of the church in which my father was the minister. I did the ordinary chores falling to the lot of such an individual. But my happiest, and proudest, job was to ring the bell from a long rope in the vestibule. To this day the memory of that glorious clang, clang, clang vibrates in my ears.
Never do I hear the peals of a great bell that I am not thrilled. In the smaller towns and cities, especially, is this sound a reverberating symbol of a free people. There is something divinely holy about the echo of a church bell—or of any bell, for that matter.
Bells have always fascinated me. At my summer camp in Nova Scotia I have an old U. S. Navy bell to call me to meals. I also have a big cow-bell, of ancient vintage, with a melodious tone that I ring to help remind me of the same tones that thrilled me as I listened to the same sort of a bell in many a group of cattle, happily grazing in the fields where I worked as a boy.
In Burton's "Kasidah" he writes of "the tinkling of the camel's bell"—and so realistic is his poetry that you seem to hear the echo of this famous bell. To understand how a bell is revered you have but to read the recent book "A Bell for Adano," by John Hersey. In this story a bell became almost the heart of a community, a symbol of its life.
Edgar Allan Poe wrote one of his most familiar poems about "The Bells." And Lafcadio Hearn wrote one of his most beautiful essays, in his book "Chinese Ghosts," entitled "The Soul of the Great Bell."
Throughout the world the Liberty Bell at Independence Hall, in Philadelphia, is known. Its historic story is precious to every American; and quite as famous and beloved are the chimes of "Big Ben" in London, which have become so familiar in recent years, thanks to the wonder of radio.
Sleigh bells, school bells, dinner bells—romance, poetry and remembered beauty hover about them all. Their lingering tones never quite die out. May God grant that the bells of the world may soon ring out in celebration of universal peace—the happiest in all history!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject "Paul Collectors."

Out Of The Past
From the Files of the Star and Sentinel and The Gettysburg Times
ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO
The Electro-Magnetic Telegraph is now finished between Washington and Baltimore. Several messages were conveyed backwards and forwards on Friday. The question was asked "what was the House engaged on?" The immediate answer was "on motion to adjourn"—and so with various other matters. It is a total annihilation of time and space.

Married—On Tuesday, by the Rev. John G. Frickey, Mr. John W. Dull to Miss Susanna Myers, all of Mendenhall township.

Fruits of the Season—Our friend, S. R. Russell, Esq., presented us with a few strawberries from his garden, of the finest flavor and extraordinary size—one of them measuring 3½ inches in circumference.

The Sabbath. In pursuance of notice given, a meeting of the Friends of the Sabbath was held in the lecture room of the Presbyterian church in Gettysburg on Tuesday evening, May 21, 1844. It was organized by the appointment of Hon. George Smyser as President and Robert G. Harper, secretary.

The object of the meeting was stated by the Rev. J. C. Watson to be the appointment of Delegates to represent Gettysburg and its vicinity in the State Sabbath convention, which is to assemble at Harrisburg on the 30th inst. Rev. J. C. Watson, Rev. E. V. Gerhart, Samuel H. Buehler, George Shryock and Wm. W. Paxton, Esq., were nominated to the committee.

We see it stated in the newspapers that John Jacob Astor presented the City Hotel, worth $200,000, to his granddaughter.

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
Ceremonies at the National Cemetery: In Gettysburg the Decoration day observances were held on Saturday, May 29. The ceremonies were directed by a committee of the Post of the Grand Army of the Republic. By 4 o'clock our streets were thronged with old and young, most of them bearing bouquets to be strewn on the graves.

Capt. A. M. Hunter acted as Chief Marshal, with Wm. H. Rupp and Wm. P. McCartney as assistants. The procession moved from Center Square amid the tolling of church bells and the firing of minute guns, in the following order:

1. Hearse draped with national flags and decorated with floral offerings, drawn by four grey horses, under charge of Dr. T. Tate.
2. Gettysburg Cornet band and drum corps.
3. Gettysburg Zouaves, Capt. Norris.
4. Franklin Zouaves, Capt. Elcholtz.
5. Squad of U. S. Infantry, Lieut. Turtle.
6. Children of the National Homestead.
7. Faculty and Students of the College.
8. Sabbath Schools of St. James church, Methodist and Reformed, the children carrying bouquets.

The procession having reached the National Cemetery, formed around the base of the monument, within the semi-circle where repose the remains of the union soldiers. The exercises were opened with a prologue given by J. Howard West, prayer by Rev. W. H. Deatrick, A. Esq., was followed by singing by the College Choir. Flowers were handed over to the Orphans of the National Homestead, and by them strewn on the soldiers' graves. Prof. H. Louis Faugher then delivered an address. At the close of the address the National hymn "America" was sung. Rev. E. Breidenbaugh pronounced the benediction. The exercises closed by the Doxology.

She is a lady of much brilliancy and a great favor at the White House. Her husband is to deliver the oration at the Gettysburg dedication of the Soldiers' Monument. Frederick

MRS. LOEWEN SPEAKS SUNDAY AT FAIRFIELD
Mrs. Helen Loewen, recorder of deeds of Dauphin county, was the principal speaker at the Memorial Day services held at Fairfield Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Loewen used as her theme the challenge given her recently by a wounded soldier returned from the battlefield when he said: "Tell the people that their spirit must back us up." Back of this spirit is the same challenge as was felt at Valley Forge and at Gettysburg and more recently at Bataan, she said. Mrs. Loewen paid special tribute to those of the rural areas who "seem to have a deeper feeling about the things that are close to God and nature" and a deep consciousness of the sacrifice necessary to win the war and the peace.

Special Music Given
To the women of our land she gave a particular challenge to serve more and more in whatever capacity that they are able to serve and to do it with courage and optimism for it is that that "keeps the spirit alive." To illustrate, Mrs. Loewen used the stories of Jennie Wade and of Molly Pitcher.

In concluding her remarks, Mrs. Loewen begged for a united spirit and effort on the part of all the people. She pointed out that a nation "falls not from losing battles so much as from a disrupted and disunited spirit within. Rome, a great military power, for example, fell when her people lost courage and unity."

The program included music by the Fairfield high school band, revellie by Rodney Harbaugh; invocation by the Rev. John H. Ehrhart, pastor of the Fairfield Reformed church; reading of Lincoln's Gettysburg address by the Rev. George S. Stoneback, pastor of the Fairfield Mennonite church; solos by Arthur Roth, accompanied by Miss Helen McClear; reading by Miss Ethel Grace Allison; taps by Miss Janet Musselman and benediction by the Rev. John C. McCune, pastor of the Zion Lutheran church, Fairfield.

RE-EMPLOYMENT OF VETERANS TO BE SEVERE TASK
By JAMES MARLOW and GEORGE ZIELKE
Washington, May 29 (AP)—Selective Service has placed its finger very firmly on one of the most tender spots in the whole problem of re-employing war veterans.

Says SS, in interpreting that section of the 1940 Selective Training and Service Act which protects the job rights of returning veterans: "A veteran is entitled to reinstatement in his former position or one of like seniority, status and pay, even though such reinstatement necessitates the discharge of a non-veteran with greater seniority."

Settlement of cases like that will be painful for workers, bosses and unions.

A man over 38, too old for war but the father of children and for years a steady worker in the plant to which a non-married veteran returns.

A man, kept out of military service for physical reasons when he volunteered and when the draft board called him. He didn't stay out of the war because he wanted to.

Women who went into jobs with the understanding they would be permanent and built up seniority.

Hundreds of thousands of negroes, satisfactorily employed now in factories and at jobs where negroes never were considered before.

Under that 1940 act veterans are entitled to their old jobs back provided they ask for them within 40 days after their military discharge and provided the job they had was understood to be a permanent job.

Here are some things a boss should remember if he tries to stall off a veteran who fits the provisions outlined above:

The veteran is entitled to back pay for the time lost because of the boss' delay in re-hiring him.

The U. S. district attorney, when he considers a veteran's claims just, will fight for him in the U. S. courts, without charge, win or lose. But the boss who fights a case will have to pay his own attorney and, if he loses, court costs, too.

Additionally, he will be liable for that back pay for the veteran because of time lost in the court contest.

Any employer, seeking to show that a veteran before going into the service had waived re-employment rights, must be prepared to prove it.

An employer is not required to reinstate a veteran if his circumstances have so changed as to make it "unreasonable or impossible to do so." But what is "unreasonable or impossible?" SS says that must be decided by circumstances in each case.

The convenience of an employer, SS adds, must be distinguished from "impossible" or "unreasonable." SS says: "The fact that the non-veteran to be replaced is receiving less pay than the employer would be required to pay the veteran should not be considered as a condition 'unreasonable' or 'impossible'."

County Youths, Topographers In Italy, Use Machine Made By Boche, Improved By Yanks
Two soldiers from Adams county are among the members of a United States Army Engineer Topographical unit in the Mediterranean theater of war (Italy) who are using tons of machinery, invented by the Germans, to turn out maps that will guide the Allies on their march to Berlin, Allied Force Headquarters in the Mediterranean theater revealed today.

Included in the unit, now working in a huge warehouse that once housed tons of supplies, are Sgt. Joseph H. Redding, Littlestown, and Pfc. Charles A. Menges, East Berlin.

Food Warehouse
When these engineers arrived in North Africa and took over the site they now occupy, the buildings were full of foodstuffs and other goods. The soldiers went to work, moved out the foodstuffs, and moved in their huge machines. But the birds that had been nesting in the rafters remain and add a very unwelcome note to the invasion blueprint that is being drawn below.

Part of this printing plant is not unlike a large lithograph reproduction plant in the United States. The majority of the maps are prepared by offset lithography and the largest camera and the largest press in North Africa speed the work.

The men who are doing this highly important duty are almost entirely veteran lithographers with many years of civilian experience behind them. The negative retouching, cutting, and wet plate work all require highly-skilled men and these soldiers meet the requirements to such a degree that supervision is kept at a minimum and a premium placed on individual responsibility.

Most difficult part of the lithography process at this plant is combating the weather. The absolute accuracy that this work demands is dependent to a degree upon an even temperature, because of the wide variations temperature can cause in chemical reactions, negative sizes, and other technical operations.

Soldiers have had to battle great differences in temperature, such that in the morning men doing negative retouching had to warm their hands over a stove so they could work, while during the afternoon they had to take time to cool off under a cold shower.

Navy Commendations
The drafting rooms use equipment invented by the Germans entirely, although today the machines used are models that have been improved by American scientists. A complete repair shop for these delicate instruments is maintained in the plant.

The maps which these men both draw and reproduce for use by the combat teams are made from air reconnaissance photos, drawings, and captured enemy battle maps. Before the map is completed and reproduced, all three sources have been combined and the result is usually a map more complete than anyone would dream possible. And complete to the last little detail.

These soldiers, who work in three eight-hour shifts, have done such a complete job on the maps they have handled that when a commendation was given them by the Navy for some work done, the commendation read in part: "The maps you have reproduced for us are better than those we gave you."

28 GRADUATE AT LITTLESTOWN HIGH SCHOOL
Twenty-eight young people received diplomas Friday evening at the thirty-first annual commencement exercises of the Littlestown high school. The exercises were held in the school auditorium with a capacity attendance.

The invocation was given by the Rev. Kenneth D. James, pastor of St. John's Lutheran church there. An oration, "What High School Has Meant to Me," was given by Jean I. Eckard. The class song, the words for which were written by D. Elwood Breighner, was sung.

The address to the graduates was delivered by Dr. Abdel Ross Wentz, president of the Lutheran Theological seminary, Gettysburg. The presentation of the class gift to the school was made by Anna E. Hafe, followed by the announcement of the awards and the presentation of diplomas by Richard A. Little, president of the board of education.

The honor students were Jean I. Eckard, valedictorian; Anna E. Hafe, salutatorian; Robert B. Warheim, Helen V. Myers and James C. Sentz. The awards announced were as follows: Littlestown High School Alumni association cash awards of $2.50 each for English to Robert B. Warheim; history to Robert B. Warheim; home economics, Helen V. Myers; commercial, Anna E. Hafe, and music, Betty L. R. Reindollar, and faculty awards, for scholarship, Jean I. Eckard, and athletics, Barbara A. Keefer.

The members of the graduating class were Maurice W. Bittle, Elwood D. Breighner, J. Donald Boyd, Esther M. Crouse, Dorothy C. Dehoff, Gladys M. Dutterer, William M. Ebaugh, Jean I. Eckard, H. Reindollar, Doris M. Sanders, James C. Sentz, Mary E. Sentz, Jeanne M. Smith, Ruth M. Snyder, Robert S. Straley, William A. Strayer, Robert B. Warheim and Betty A. Witt.

SCORE AGENTS IN WARD CASE
Washington, May 29 (AP)—There's more commotion in Washington over the Montgomery Ward case than if the company's catalogues had all been caught in a Chicago wind.

As a result of the seizure of the Ward properties, the case came closer and closer today to becoming a prime political issue.

There were these developments: A Senate Judiciary subcommittee Friday issued a report unequivocally criticizing every Federal department which had anything to do with the seizure.

Attorney General Biddle, target for the committee's sharpest blasts, replied that the committee findings were "absurd," and, protesting that he had been given no opportunity to appear before it, said the Senate group's headings were akin to "star chamber" proceedings.

President Roosevelt, when advised that the report had suggested Congress might change the law to make decisions of the War Labor board subject to court review, indicated he thought the plan impractical.

YANKS ADVANCE ON BIAK ISLAND OFF NEW GUINEA
Advanced Allied Headquarters, New Guinea, May 29 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Walter Krueger's Sixth Army troops pressed forward on Biak island off the Dutch New Guinea north coast today against increasing Japanese efforts to trip up the Americans in their latest 200-mile stride toward the Philippines.

Gen Douglas MacArthur said the Americans have consolidated their positions around Bosnek, captured shortly after the naval and air-supported landings Saturday three miles east of the town. The Yanks were reaching for Mokmer airfield two and one-half miles away.

Near Philippines
Mokmer airfield, four miles, west of Bosnek, is one of three airstrips on Biak, largest island in the Schouten group. Capture of the fields will put Allied bombers only 880 miles from the southern tip of the Philippines and 600 miles south of Palau, the enemy's South Seas headquarters in the western Carolines.

The Japanese were bitterly defending the prize, their snipers taking a rising toll, a headquarters spokesman said.

The Americans liberated 200 Javanese held as laborers by the Japanese.

Allied bombers splashed 288 tons of explosives on Japanese positions. Nine enemy planes, five of them bombers, were downed by Allied fighters and surface vessels' anti-aircraft guns. One of the four Nipponese bombers accounted for by the fleet's ack-ack crashed on an escort vessel, damaging the ship and causing casualties among the crew.

Concludes Campaign
MacArthur described the Biak landings as virtually concluding the Allied campaign for New Guinea. The thrust was 200 miles west of Wakde island, which had fallen under the Yankee invasion wave May 18.

In the Sami area on the New Guinea mainland near Wakde island, American infantrymen battling for the Maffin airfield captured nearby hill 225, one mile southeast of the field, thereby winning an excellent artillery position to hammer the enemy.

Allied naval units also were shelling the enemy's installations near Maffin field.

Disintegration of Japanese forces in the neighborhood of Hollandia, 110 miles east of the Wakde-Sami area, continued with the trapped soldiers of the enemy's 18th Army deprived of supplies or reinforcements by the American invasion there April 22.

COOPERATION IS NEEDED FOR RECONVERSION
By WICK TEMPLE
Hershey, Pa., May 29 (AP)—Governor Earl Warren, of California, today called for cooperative effort by Congress and the states to win "a war against the aftermath of war" in reconversion of industry when peace comes.

"Peace may be as much a national crisis as war itself," the California executive told the national conference of Governors.

Governor Warren outlined his ideas for reconversion after the Governors heard a message from President Roosevelt congratulating the states for quick mobilization of their resources "for effective unified action against the common enemy," and expressing confidence the problems ahead "will be met by the same cooperative spirit."

Working Partner
Governor Warren mentioned for a place on the Republican national ticket although asserting he is not a candidate—said in solving the question of reconversion "there can be no substitute for public discussion and thoroughly considered legislative action by the Congress."

"We, as Governors, want to engage in that discussion," he added.

The conference of Governors, the California executive said "should be a full, working partner." In the administrative agency in charge of the changeover because:

"We know that reconversion will require the combined wisdom, the combined effort of all levels of government in cooperation with every element of our economic life."

Major problems of reconversion, he said, were disposition of 15 billion dollars of Federal funds invested in war plants and surplus stocks owned by the government at an estimated value of 75 billion dollars.

"We must know to what extent the Federal government proposes to stay in business," Governor Warren asserted, referring to plant investments, and how it "proposes to dispose of its colossal surpluses."

GOLD STAR DAD FATHER OF YEAR
New York, May 29 (AP)—A Marine officer who disobeyed a commander to avenge the loss of his Marine flier son has been chosen as the "fighting father of the year" by the National Father's Day committee.

The award was made to Maj. Fred D. Conderman of New Bern, North Carolina, who entered the Marines corps after his son, Second Lt. Robert J. Conderman, was killed in the Japanese attack on Wake island, December 7, 1941.

"I'll take it on two conditions," he said on being offered a captain's commission. "I want to be sent to the Pacific war zone and I get a rifle."

Ordered to remain aboard ship when the Marines landed on Guadalcanal August 7, 1942, Conderman nevertheless went ashore in one of the first landing craft.

A former North Carolina postal inspector, he was placed in charge of the Marine postoffice on Guadalcanal, but found time to take part in attacks upon the Japanese.

Contracting malaria, he was returned to the United States and now is mail officer at Camp Lejeune, North Carolina.

FDR COMMENDS GOVERNORS AT 36TH MEETING
By WICK TEMPLE
Hershey, Pa., May 29 (AP)—President Roosevelt congratulated the states of the nation today for quick mobilization of their resources "for effective unified action against the common enemy" and expressed confidence the problems ahead "will be met by the same cooperative spirit."

Governor Leverett Saltonstall, (R) of Massachusetts, chairman of the National Conference of Governors, presented the President's message at the opening session of the 36th annual meeting of chief executives.

Cooperative Spirit
"From my own personal experience in attending these conferences as Governor of the state of New York," President Roosevelt said in his message, "I know the fine spirit of cooperation in which the conferences meet and also the practical benefits which can come from this kind of cooperative discussion among the several states."

"Governors' conferences have led to a unity of purpose which has served our nation so well in peace, and which is serving with increased effect during these days of war. Within a comparatively short time since the attack upon us, the various states have been able to adjust their activities, convert their agencies and institutions and mobilize their resources for effective unified action against the common enemy."

"In anticipation of our inevitable victory, it becomes necessary for the states to make plans and programs and arrange their resources, so that they may continue, individually and collectively, to serve the public welfare, and provide the high standard of living which the physical and human assets of America are capable of producing."

Saltonstall Speaks
"My congratulations to the Governors' conference upon the work which it has already accomplished. I am confident that the problems and tasks which lie ahead will be met by the same cooperative spirit which has meant so much to the well-being of our nation."

Governor Saltonstall, in opening the conference, asserted that "the economic and social stability of the world will depend largely upon the strength of the United States" and that "our people count much" on the unit of state government.

Just Folks

SOMEbody

By a fellow called "Somebody"—name never known—
The germs of despair and dissension are sown.
"Somebody told me," my neighbor begins.

As a tale of man's cunning in whippers he spins.
But here's a safe rule: Never utter or credit

Whatever is started with: "Somebody said it!"

This fellow called "Somebody" poisons the air.

It seems that his purpose is always to scare.

He's met in the places where gossip can flow.

His friends, he announces, are "men in the know."

So talk if you must; say you saw it or read it.

But never repeat it if "Somebody said it!"

This "Somebody" person has only one mission

And that is to scatter the seeds of suspicion.

His facts are all rumors; his narratives vicious;

His stuff innuendoes and mostly malicious.

So never repeat it lest further you spread it.

And never believe it if "Somebody said it!"

Today's Talk

THE LINGERING TONES OF BELLS

As a youth in Michigan I was at one time the janitor of the church in which my father was the minister. I did the ordinary chores falling to the lot of such an individual. But my happiest, and proudest, job was to ring the bell from a long rope in the vestibule. To this day the memory of that glorious clang, clang, clang vibrates in my ears.

Never do I hear the peals of a great bell that I am not thrilled. In the smaller towns and cities, especially, is this sound a reverberating symbol of a free people. There is something divinely holy about the echo of a church bell—or of any bell, for that matter.

Bells have always fascinated me. At my summer camp in Nova Scotia I have an old U. S. Navy bell to call me to meals. I also have a big cow-bell, of ancient vintage, with a melodious tone that I ring to help remind me of the same tones that thrilled me as I listened to the same sort of a bell in many a group of cattle, happily grazing in the fields where I worked as a boy.

In Burton's "Kasidah" he writes of "the tinkling of the camel's bell"—and so realistic is his poetry that you seem to hear the echo of this famous bell. To understand how a bell is revered you have but to read the recent book "A Bell for Adano," by John Hersey. In this story a bell became almost the heart of a community, a symbol of its life.

Edgar Allan Poe wrote one of his most familiar poems about "The Bells." And Lafcadio Hearn wrote one of his most beautiful essays, in his book "Chinese Ghosts," entitled "The Soul of the Great Bell."

Throughout the world the Liberty Bell at Independence Hall, in Philadelphia, is known. Its historic story is precious to every American; and quite as famous and beloved are the chimes of "Big Ben," in London, which have become so familiar in recent years, thanks to the wonder of radio.

Sleigh bells, school bells, dinner bells—romance, poetry and remembered beauty hover about them all. Their lingering tones never quite die out. May God grant that the bells of the world may soon ring out in celebration of universal peace—the happiest in all history!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Fault Collectors."

It takes about 25,000 men to operate New York's subway systems.

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO

The Electro-Magnetic Telegraph is now finished between Washington and Baltimore. — Several messages were conveyed backwards and forwards on Friday. The question was asked "what was the House engaged on?" The immediate answer was "on motion to adjourn"—and so with various other matters. It is a total annihilation of time and space.

MRS. LOEWEN SPEAKS SUNDAY AT FAIRFIELD

Mrs. Helen Loewen, recorder of deeds of Dauphin county, was the principal speaker at the Memorial Day services held at Fairfield Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Loewen used as her theme the challenge given her recently by a wounded soldier returned from the battlefield when he said: "Tell the people that their spirit must back us up." Back of this spirit is the same challenge as was felt at Valley Forge and at Gettysburg and more recently at Bataan, she said. Mrs. Loewen paid special tribute to those of the rural areas who "seem to have a deeper feeling about the things that are close to God and nature" and a deep consciousness of the sacrifice necessary to win the war and the peace.

Special Music Given
To the women of our land she gave a particular challenge to serve more and more in whatever capacity that they are able to serve and to do it with courage and optimism for it is that that "keeps the spirit alive." To illustrate, Mrs. Loewen used the stories of Jennie Wade and of Molly Pitcher.

In concluding her remarks, Mrs. Loewen begged for a united spirit and effort on the part of all the people. She pointed out that a nation "falls not from losing battles so much as from a disrupted and disunited spirit within. Rome, a great military power, for example, fell when her people lost courage and unity."

The program included music by the Fairfield high school band, revellie by Rodney Harbaugh; invocation by the Rev. John H. Ehrhart, pastor of the Fairfield Reformed church; reading of Lincoln's Gettysburg address by the Rev. George S. Stoneback, pastor of the Fairfield Mennonite church; solos by Arthur Roth, accompanied by Miss Helen McClellan; reading by Miss Ethel Grace Allison; taps by Miss Janet Musselman and benediction by the Rev. John C. McCune, pastor of the Zion Lutheran church, Fairfield.

RE-EMPLOYMENT OF VETERANS TO BE SEVERE TASK

By JAMES MARLOW and GEORGE ZIELKE

Washington, May 29 (AP)—Selective Service has placed its finger very firmly on one of the most tenacious spots in the whole problem of re-employing war veterans.

Says SS, in interpreting that section of the 1940 Selective Training and Service Act which protects the job rights of returning veterans: "A veteran is entitled to reinstatement in his former position or one of like seniority, status and pay, even though such reinstatement necessitates the discharge of a non-veteran with greater seniority."

Settlement of cases like that will be painful for workers, bosses and unions.

A man over 38, too old for war but the father of children and for years a steady worker in the plant to which a non-married veteran returns.

A man, kept out of military service for physical reasons when he volunteered and when the draft board called him. He didn't stay out of the war because he wanted to.

Women who went into jobs with the understanding they would be permanent and built up seniority. Hundreds of thousands of negroes, satisfactorily employed now in factories and at jobs where negroes never were considered before.

Under that 1940 act veterans are entitled to their old jobs back provided they ask for them within 40 days after their military discharge and provided the job they had was understood to be a permanent job.

Here are some things a boss should remember if he tries to stall off a veteran who fits the provisions outlined above:

The veteran is entitled to back pay for the time lost because of the boss' delay in re-hiring him.

The U. S. district attorney, when he considers a veteran's claims just, will fight for him in the U. S. Courts without charge, win or lose. But the boss who fights a case will have to pay his own attorney and, if he loses, court costs, too.

Additionally, he will be liable for that back pay for the veteran because of time lost in the court contest.

Any employer, seeking to show that a veteran before going into the service had waived re-employment rights, must be prepared to prove it.

An employer is not required to reinstate a veteran if his circumstances have so changed as to make it "unreasonable or impossible to do so." But what is "unreasonable or impossible?" SS says that must be decided by circumstances in each case.

The convenience of an employer, SS adds, must be distinguished from "impossible" or "unreasonable." SS says: "The fact that the non-veteran to be replaced is receiving less pay than the employer would be required to pay the veteran should not be considered as a condition 'unreasonable' or 'impossible'."

County Youths, Topographers In Italy, Use Machine Made By Boche, Improved By Yanks

Two soldiers from Adams county are among the members of a United States Army Engineer Topographical unit in the Mediterranean theater of war (Italy) who are using tons of machinery, invented by the Germans, to turn out maps that will guide the Allies on their march to Berlin. Allied Force Headquarters in the Mediterranean theater revealed today.

Included in the unit, now working in a huge warehouse that once housed tons of supplies, are Sgt. Joseph H. Redding, Littlestown, and Pfc. Charles A. Menges, East Berlin.

Food Warehouse
When these engineers arrived in North Africa and took over the site they now occupy, the buildings were full of foodstuffs and other goods. The soldiers went to work, moved out the foodstuffs, and moved in their huge machines. But the birds that had been nesting in the rafters remain and add a very unwelcome note to the invasion blueprint that is being drawn below.

Part of this printing plant is not unlike a large lithograph reproduction plant in the United States. The majority of the maps are prepared by offset lithography and the largest camera and the largest press in North Africa speed the work.

The men who are doing this highly important duty are almost entirely veteran lithographers with many years of civilian experience behind them. The negative retouching, cutting, and wet plate work all require highly-skilled men and these soldiers meet the requirements to such a degree that supervision is kept at a minimum and a premium placed on individual responsibility.

Most difficult part of the lithography process at this plant is combating the weather. The absolute accuracy that this work demands is dependent to a degree upon an even temperature, because of the wide variations temperature can cause in chemical reactions, negative sizes, and other technical operations.

YANKS ADVANCE ON BIAK ISLAND OFF NEW GUINEA

Advanced Allied Headquarters, New Guinea, May 29 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Walter Krueger's Sixth Army troops pressed forward on Biak island off the Dutch New Guinea north coast today against increasing Japanese efforts to trip up the Americans in their latest 200-mile stride toward the Philippines.

Gen Douglas MacArthur said the Americans have consolidated their positions around Bosnek, captured shortly after the naval and air-supported landings Saturday three miles east of the town. The Yanks were reaching for Mokmer airfield two and one-half miles away.

Near Philippines
Mokmer airfield, four miles west of Bosnek, is one of three airstrips on Biak, largest island in the Schouten group. Capture of the fields will put Allied bombers only 800 miles from the southern tip of the Philippines and 600 miles south of Palau, the enemy's South Seas headquarters in the western Carolines.

The Japanese were bitterly defending the prize, their snipers taking a rising toll, a headquarters spokesman said.

The Americans liberated 200 Javanese held as laborers by the Japanese.

Allied bombers splashed 288 tons of explosives on Japanese positions. Nine enemy planes, five of them bombers, were downed by Allied fighters and surface vessels' anti-aircraft guns. One of the four Nipponese bombers accounted for by the fleet's ack-ack crashed on an escort vessel, damaging the ship and causing casualties among the crew.

MacArthur described the Biak landings as virtually concluding the Allied campaign for New Guinea. The thrust was 200 miles west of Wakde island, which had fallen under the Yankee invasion wave May 18.

In the Sarimi area on the New Guinea mainland near Wakde island, American infantrymen battling for the Maffin airdrome captured nearby hill 225, one mile southeast of the field, thereby winning an excellent artillery position to hammer the enemy.

Allied naval units also were shelling the enemy's installations near Maffin field.

Disintegration of Japanese forces in the neighborhood of Hollandia, 110 miles east of the Wakde-Sarimi area, continued with the trapped soldiers of the enemy's 18th Army deprived of supplies or reinforcements by the American invasion there April 22.

COOPERATION IS NEEDED FOR RECONVERSION

By WICK TEMPLE

Hershey, Pa., May 29 (AP)—Governor Earl Warren, of California, today called for cooperative effort by Congress and the states to win "a war against the aftermath of war" in reconversion of industry when peace comes.

"Peace may be as much a national crisis as war itself," the California executive told the national conference of Governors.

Governor Warren outlined his ideas for reconversion after the Governors heard a message from President Roosevelt congratulating the states for quick mobilization of their resources "for effective unified action against the common enemy," and expressing confidence the problems ahead "will be met by the same cooperative spirit."

Working Partner

Governor Warren—mentioned for a place on the Republican national ticket although asserting he is not a candidate—said in solving the question of reconversion "there can be no substitute for public discussion and thoroughly considered legislative action by the Congress."

"We, as Governors, want to engage in that discussion," he added.

The conference of Governors, the California executive said "should be a full, working partner" in the administrative agency in charge of the changeover because:

"We know that reconversion will require the combined wisdom, the combined effort of all levels of government in cooperation with every element of our economic life."

Major problems of reconversion, he said, were disposition of 15 billion dollars of Federal funds invested in war plants and surplus stocks owned by the government at an estimated value of 75 billion dollars.

"We must know to what extent the Federal government proposes to stay in business," Governor Warren asserted, referring to plant investments, and how it "proposes to dispose of its colossal surpluses."

YANKS SPANK BROWNS TWICE BUMS WIN TWO

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

It seems to be double or nothing for the world champion New York Yankees whenever they play a doubleheader.

Manager Joe McCarthy's Bronx Bombers have played four twin bills so far this season and have swept all of them. Their latest double success came yesterday at St. Louis where they whipped the Browns twice, 6 to 3 in 11 innings and 6 to 2, to take a three-game lead in the American circuit.

Denny Galehouse, making his first start of the season as a weekend Brown pitcher, stayed on even terms with Hank Borowy for 10 innings in the opener, but Johnny Lindell's homer started a four-run Yank uprising in the 11th. Rookie Joe Page outpitched Jack Kramer in the nightcap.

Cards-Giants Split
The St. Louis Cards, National league leaders, gained only a split with the Giants when newly-married Bill Voiselle hurled a three-hitter for the New Yorkers to take the nightcap, 3 to 1, before 33,104 paid at the Polo grounds. In the opener big Mort Cooper also twirled a three-hitter and fanned ten in blanking the Ottomans, 8-0.

Jim Tobin and Al Javery, of the Boston Braves, put an abrupt end to the seven-game winning streak of the Chicago Cubs. Their pitching, coupled with Butch Nieman's two homers and a triple, gave the Braves both ends of a twin bill, 7 to 3 and 7 to 4.

The Boston Red Sox made it six straight over the Chicago White Sox by pasting the Dykemen twice, 6 to 4 and 4 to 2, hitting opportunist behind bases on balls and Chicago misplays. Joe Bowman and Rookie Clem Hausman went the route for the Red Sox.

Brooklyn delighted a turnout of 28,061 at Ebbets field by beating Cincinnati twice, 8 to 7 and 3 to 2. Augie Galan's eighth inning single won the opener. A one-baser by Rookie Eddie Basinski with the bases full shattered a 1-1 deadlock in the nightcap.

A's-Indians Split
Detroit managed to win its third of 16 home starts by pounding out a 15 to 2 triumph over Washington in the second game of a bargain bill. The Senators won the opener, 4 to 2, behind Johnny Niggeling's effective pitching. A first inning homer by Jimmy Outlaw with the bases loaded started the Tigers to an easy conquest in the afterpiece.

Rip Sewell pitched and batted Pittsburgh to a 4-0 victory over the Phillies, but Freddy Fitzsimmons' men turned on Nick Sincovich to grab the nightcap, 8 to 2, for a split. Sewell tripled one run home to back up his six-hit twirling.

Cleveland and the Philadelphia Athletics also divided a doubleheader. Jesse Flores was effective in the pinches to take the opener for the A's, 4 to 3. The tribe took the second, 5 to 3, behind Rookie Pitcher Paul Calvert.

Watch Is Stolen From Blind Yank
Philadelphia, May 29 (AP)—Theft of a watch with braille figures has been reported here by Marine Pfc. Donald E. Kelley, who lost his eyeglass at Vella Lavella in the southwest Pacific last August.

Kelley, a patient at the U. S. Naval hospital, is a native of Des Moines, Iowa. He was married at Oakland, California, after his injury and expects to return there soon with a seeing-eye dog, but he'd like to take the watch—"kind of a pal"—back with him.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, May 29 (AP)—Information please? . . . About ten years ago, when the award for the leading hitter in minor league baseball was established, the National association considered putting up a similar trophy for scholastic baseball leaders.

But after learning how many headaches they could expect, the minor league bosses dropped the idea. . . . Now this corner, with no prizes to hand out or axes to grind, would like to know who are this year's leading high school and college baseball performers. . . . To keep the field within bounds, how about nominations for the No. 1 men (or boys) in hitting, base stealing, pitching (both won-lost and earned run averages) and the best double-play combinations? . . . It may not prove anything, but if we can get full season records and pick the leaders, we'll give them whatever recognition this dept. can offer. . . . At least it ought to provoke a few my-boy-can-lick-your-boy arguments.

MONDAY MATINEE
Swede Hagberg, Navy grid coach, hasn't seen a football game in a year. . . . Did you know Fred Merkle's famous "boner" not only cost the Giants the 1908 pennant but it also cost Christy Mathewson his only undisputed National league pitching championship? . . . Ed Reulbach won it that year with 24 victories and 7 losses. If the Giants and Matty had won that game, Mathewson's record would have been 38 won, 10 lost for a .792 average to Reulbach's .774.

SERVICE DEPT.
Brig. Gen. Dean C. Strother, commander of the fighter wing operating in Italy with the Fifteenth Air Force, was a basketball star at West point in the early 1930's. . . . Lieut. (jg) Owen Parry, who recently was promoted from ensign on his return to the New Orleans armed guard center, was under attack several times during a year of duty afloat, but never got to fire a shot. . . . Maybe the opposition was trying to run the ends. . . . Ensign Adolph Kiefer, the backstroke champ who teaches Navy physical instructors swimming at Bainbridge, Md., has three brothers in the armed forces. One is a bombardier in the South Pacific, one is a pilot in Italy and one is in England.

HAGERSTOWN IS DOUBLE WINNER
(By The Associated Press)
Hagerstown stands undisputed leader in the Interstate series today after taking both sides of a double header from Trenton yesterday, 6 to 2 and 2 to 0.

Nowak's homer featured the first game although it was Liles' single in the fifth inning that won the game for the Hagerstown Owls. The Owls lost a 9 to 6 decision to Trenton Saturday.

Allentown came into a second place tie with Wilmington last night after winning three week-end games from York. Saturday's score was 7 to 2 while yesterday's doubleheader was won 7 to 3 and 5 to 2. Four runs were scored by Allentown in the fourth inning of the nightcap.

Lefty George Through
Lancaster and Wilmington split a doubleheader yesterday. After trailing 7 to 4 in the first game, Wilmington scored four runs in the ninth inning when Bill Jankowski hit a homer with the bases full. Lancaster took the second, seven-inning game 5 to 4.

A total of 4,522 paying customers watched yesterday's Interstate contests.

Saturday, Thomas Edward (Lefty) George, veteran of 38 years in organized baseball and an official of the York White Roses in the Interstate league, hung up his glove for the last time, announcing: "Guess I'm getting too old to pitch."

George had major league trials with the Boston Braves, St. Louis Browns, Cleveland Indians and Cincinnati Reds.

Two Navy Planes Crash In Midair
Atlantic City, N. J., May 29 (AP)—A Navy plane, its tail sheared off in a collision with another plane in the air, crashed into a three-story frame dwelling at 113 North Michigan avenue yesterday.

Two boarders in the house at the time escaped injury.

The plane damaged the house and started a fire which was extinguished by firemen responding to two alarms.

The pilot and co-pilot bailed out after the crash with another plane flying with them in a formation of five. One landed on a motor company roof and the other on a second floor porch of a dwelling.

The fliers were based at the Atlantic City Naval Air station, the second plane was not damaged.

Two firemen were injured in the fire. Acting Battalion Chief John Anderson was treated at Atlantic City hospital for a foot injury and Fireman Michael Powers was treated by a naval air unit for arm burns.

ROLFE URGES WORLD SERIES FOR COLLEGES

By LOU BLACK
New Haven, Conn., May 29 (AP)—If Red Rolfe, the ex-New York Yankee third sacker, has his way, there's going to be a college baseball world series.

"The major leagues would cooperate and, since the games would be played in June after colleges close, there shouldn't be any reason for academic conflict," he says.

Rolfe doesn't expect his idea will see fruition until after the war, of course, but the former big-leaguer who gave Yale one of its snappiest nines in modern athletic history last summer in his first crack at college coaching, says the groundwork should be laid now.

"We should have our plans formulated and ready as soon as possible," suggests Red, "so that we can get going when the boys return to college from the war."

Elimination Series
What Rolfe, veteran of six major league world series as a member of the Yanks, has in mind is a short series of regional eliminations, with the two survivors meeting for the title in a major league ball park.

He would, for example, have the winner of the Pacific Coast conference meet the Missouri Valley champs; the Western conference titlists oppose the Eastern intercollegiate league victors; the Southwest battle the Southeast.

"The playoffs and championship series could be completed within a 10-day period after college ends in June," Rolfe figures.

SEEK CHANGES IN GRID RULES
By HAROLD CLAASSEN
New York, May 29 (AP)—The National Collegiate football code, unchanged since the 1941 season because of the war, will be the basis of a day-long discussion today, but no matter what is decided at the session of the coaches' streamlined convention, all action will have to be unofficial.

The coaches' organization can only suggest revisions to the National collegiate rules committee of which Lt. Col. William Bingham of Harvard, is chairman. Bingham has said the rules will remain unchanged for the duration. However, the Big Ten members already have agreed to prohibit out-of-bounds kickoffs in the coming campaign but decided to apply the present laws if an opening boot bounds off the playing field.

Passing Rule
Other rules expected to be studied by the 50 coaches who opened the two-day session yesterday are the ones restricting a team from passing anywhere behind the line of scrimmage and prohibiting the defending eleven from running with a fumble.

At yesterday's opening session, the coaches voted honorary memberships to Commanders Tom Hamilton and Frank Wickhorst.

Since the close of the 1943 campaign 11 major schools have decided to field teams this fall, after a year's absence, while only Princeton has given up the sport this season after boasting an eleven last fall.

YANKS SPANK BROWNS TWICE BUMS WIN TWO

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

It seems to be double or nothing for the world champion New York Yankees whenever they play a doubleheader.

Manager Joe McCarthy's Bronx Bombers have played four twin bills so far this season and have swept all of them. Their latest double success came yesterday at St. Louis where they whipped the Browns twice, 6 to 3 in 11 innings and 6 to 2, to take a three-game lead in the American circuit.

Denny Galehouse, making his first start of the season as a week-end Brown pitcher, stayed on even terms with Hank Borowy for 10 innings in the opener, but Johnny Lindell's homer started a four-run Yankee uprising in the 11th. Rookie Joe Page outpitched Jack Kramer in the nightcap.

Cards-Giants Split
The St. Louis Cards, National league leaders, gained only a split with the Giants when newly-married Bill Voiselle hurled a three-hitter for the New Yorkers to take the nightcap, 3 to 1, before 33,104 paid at the Polo grounds. In the opener big Mort Cooper also twirled a three-hitter and fanned ten in blanking the Ottman, 8-0.

Jim Tobin and Al Javery, of the Boston Braves, put an abrupt end to the seven-game winning streak of the Chicago Cubs. Their pitching, coupled with Butch Nieman's two homers and a triple, gave the Braves both ends of a twin bill, 7 to 3 and 7 to 4.

The Boston Red Sox made it six straight over the Chicago White Sox by pasting the Dykemen twice, 6 to 4 and 4 to 2, hitting opportunely behind bases on balls and Chicago misplays. Joe Bowman and Rookie Clem Hausman went the route for the Red Sox.

Brooklyn delighted a turnout of 28,601 at Ebbets field by beating Cincinnati twice, 8 to 7 and 3 to 2. Augie Galan's eighth inning single won the opener. A one-baser by Eddie Basinski with the bases full shattered a 1-1 deadlock in the nightcap.

A's-Indians Split
Detroit managed to win its third of 16 home starts by pounding out a 15 to 2 triumph over Washington in the second game of a bargain bill. The Senators won the opener, 4 to 2, behind Johnny Niggeling's effective pitching. A first inning homer by Jimmy Outlaw with the bases loaded started the Tigers to an easy conquest in the afterpiece.

Rip Sewell pitched and batted Pittsburgh to a 4-0 victory over the Phillies, but Freddy Fitzsimmons' men turned on Nick Stinevich to grab the nightcap, 8 to 2, for a split. Sewell tripled one run home to back up his six-hit twirling.

Cleveland and the Philadelphia Athletics also divided a doubleheader. Jesse Flores was effective in the pinches to take the opener for the A's, 4 to 3. The tribe took the second, 5 to 3, behind Rookie Pitcher Paul Calvert.

Watch Is Stolen From Blind Yank
Philadelphia, May 29 (AP)—Theft of a watch with braille figures has been reported here by Marine Pfc. Donald E. Kelley, who lost his eyesight at Vella Lavella in the southwest Pacific last August.

Kelley, a patient at the U. S. Naval hospital, is a native of Des Moines, Iowa. He was married at Oakland, California, after his injury and expects to return there soon with a seeing-eye dog, but he'd like to take the watch—"kind of a pal"—back with him.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, May 29 (AP)—Information please? . . . About ten years ago, when the award for the leading hitter in minor league baseball was established, the National association considered putting up a similar trophy for scholastic baseball leaders.

But after learning how many headaches they could expect, the minor league bosses dropped the idea. . . . Now this corner, with no prizes to hand out or axes to grind, would like to know who are this year's leading high school and college baseball performers.

To keep the field within bounds, how about nominations for the No. 1 men (or boys) in hitting, base stealing, pitching (both won-lost and earned run averages) and the best double-play combinations? . . . It may not prove anything, but if we can get full season records and pick the leaders, we'll give them whatever recognition this dept. can offer.

At least it ought to provoke a few my-boy-can-I-hit-your-boy arguments.

MONDAY MATINEE

Swede Hagberg, Navy grid coach, hasn't seen a football game in a year. . . . Did you know Fred Merkle's famous "boner" not only cost the Giants the 1908 pennant but it also cost Christy Mathewson his only undisputed National league pitching championship? . . . Ed Reulbach won it that year with 24 victories and 7 losses. If the Giants and Matty had won that game, Mathewson's record would have been 38 won, 10 lost for a .792 average to Reulbach's .774.

SERVICE DEPT.

Brig. Gen. Dean C. Strother, commander of the fighter wing operating in Italy with the Fifteenth Air Force, was a basketball star at West point in the early 1930's. . . . Lieut. (jg) Owen Parry, who recently was promoted from ensign on his return to the New Orleans armed guard center, was under attack several times during a year of duty afloat, but never got to fire a shot. . . . Maybe the opposition was trying to run the ends. . . . Ensign Adolph Kiefer, the backstroke champ who teaches Navy physical instructors swimming at Bainbridge, Md., has three brothers in the armed forces. One is a bombardier in the South Pacific, one is a pilot in Italy and one is in England.

HAGERSTOWN IS DOUBLE WINNER

(By The Associated Press)

Hagerstown stands undisputed leader in the Interstate series today after taking both sides of a double header from Trenton yesterday, 6 to 2 and 2 to 0.

Nowak's homer featured the first game although it was Liles' single in the fifth inning that won the game for the Hagerstown Owls. The Owls lost a 9 to 6 decision to Trenton Saturday.

Allentown came into a second place tie with Wilmington last night after winning three week-end games from York. Saturday's score was 7 to 2 while yesterday's doubleheader was won 7 to 3 and 5 to 2. Four runs were scored by Allentown in the fourth inning of the nightcap.

Lefty George Through
Lancaster and Wilmington split a doubleheader yesterday. After trailing 7 to 4 in the first game, Wilmington scored four runs in the ninth inning when Bill Jankowski hit a homer with the bases full. Lancaster took the second, seven-inning game 5 to 4.

A total of 4,522 paying customers watched yesterday's Interstate contests.

Saturday, Thomas Edward (Lefty) George, veteran of 38 years in organized baseball and an official of the York White Roses in the Interstate league, hung up his glove for the last time, announcing: "Guess I'm getting too old to pitch."

George had major league trials with the Boston Braves, St. Louis Browns, Cleveland Indians and Cincinnati Reds.

Two Navy Planes Crash In Midair
Atlantic City, N. J., May 29 (AP)—A Navy plane, its tail sheared off in a collision with another plane in the air, crashed into a three-story frame dwelling at 113 North Michigan avenue yesterday.

Two boarders in the house at the time escaped injury. The plane damaged the house and started a fire which was extinguished by firemen responding to two alarms.

The pilot and co-pilot bailed out after the crash with another plane flying with them in a formation of five. One landed on a motor company roof and the other on a second floor porch of a dwelling.

ROLFE URGES WORLD SERIES FOR COLLEGES

By LOU BLACK

New Haven, Conn., May 29 (AP)—If Red Rolfe, the ex-New York Yankee third sacker, has his way, there's going to be a college baseball world series.

"The major leagues would cooperate and, since the games would be played in June after colleges close, there shouldn't be any reason for academic conflict," he says.

Rolfe doesn't expect his idea will see fruition until after the war, of course, but the former big-leaguer who gave Yale one of its snappiest nines in modern athletic history last summer in his first crack at college coaching, says the groundwork should be laid now.

"We should have our plans formulated and ready as soon as possible," suggests Red, "so that we can get going when the boys return to college from the war."

Elimination Series

What Rolfe, veteran of six major league world series as a member of the Yankees, has in mind is a short series of regional eliminations, with the two survivors meeting for the title in a major league ball park. He would, for example, have the winner of the Pacific Coast conference meet the Missouri Valley champs; the Western conference titlists oppose the Eastern intercollegiate league victors; the Southwest battle the Southeast.

"The playoffs and championship series could be completed within a 10-day period after college ends in June," Rolfe figures.

SEEK CHANGES IN GRID RULES

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

New York, May 29 (AP)—The National Collegiate football code, unchanged since the 1941 season because of the war, will be the basis of a day-long discussion today, but no matter what is decided at the session of the coaches' streamlined convention, all action will have to be unofficial.

The coaches' organization can only suggest revisions to the National collegiate rules committee of which Lieut. Col. William Bingham of Harvard, is chairman. Bingham has said the rules will remain unchanged for the duration. However, the Big Ten mentors already have agreed to prohibit out-of-bounds kickoffs in the coming campaign but decided to apply the present laws if an opening boot bounds off the playing field.

Passing Rule

Other rules expected to be studied by the 50 coaches who opened the two-day session yesterday are the ones restricting a team from passing anywhere behind the line of scrimmage and prohibiting the defending eleven from running with a fumble.

At yesterday's opening session, the coaches voted honorary memberships to Commanders Tom Hamilton and Frank Wickhorst.

Since the close of the 1943 campaign 11 major schools have decided to field teams this fall, after a year's absence, while only Princeton has given up the sport this season after boasting an eleven last fall.

Their Lives are not Lost . . .

A MEMORIAL DAY MESSAGE

No life given for country can ever be considered lost. The way a man dies is often the measure of his immortality. A hero's beneficiaries may be numbered in millions, present and future.

This is the most solemn Memorial Day in America's history. The best of our young men are now offering themselves as new hostages for our security.

We pledge our willingness to share hardships with them. We pray that by loyalty and sacrifice at home we may shorten their ordeal and bring them back to us — victorious.

LAURELS HOLD LEAGUE LEAD WILMINGTON OPENS 30-DAY RACING MEET

(By The Associated Press)

The Hartford Laurels still led the Eastern league today, but only after beating back the Albany Senators in the second game of a Sunday doubleheader.

Second-place Albany moved to within a half-game of the leaders by taking the opener 3-2 when outfielder Bill Luzansky tripled with two out and two on in the ninth.

Pete Naktienis, who twirled only Hartford home games because of a war job, stopped the Senators' winning streak at seven in the nightcap giving out five hits for a 5-0 shutout.

Manager Rip Collins of Albany connected in the opener for his third home run of the season, all at the expense of Hartford.

Leftfielder Bob Crow hammered out a total of six hits in eight times at bat as the Binghamton Triplets swept two from the Utica Braves, 3-2 and 5-2.

Heavy hitting and boldness on the base paths by Joe Zardon and Wally Michie, outfielders, sparked the Williamsport Grays to twin victories over the Elmira Pioneers, 7-2 and 6-1.

The Scranton Red Sox got away fast in both games with Wilkes-Barre to win 9-5 and 18-5.

Tonight's games: Wilkes-Barre at Scranton; Utica at Binghamton.

Hold Rites For Editor Wednesday

Pittsburgh, May 29 (AP)—Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon for Warren U. Christman, 61, managing editor of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette, who died Saturday at his suburban Mt. Lebanon home after a two-month illness.

Born in Minersville, Pa., he worked on newspapers in Tiffin, Canton and Cincinnati, all in Ohio, and Denver before coming to Pittsburgh in 1910. He joined the staff of the old Pittsburgh Post and was named managing editor 30 years ago and retained that position when the Post merged with the Gazette-Times in 1927.
